It is remarked, further, that "no doubt there will still be people who will prove imperious to the logic of these facts, and they will tell us it is a mere coincidence, and should this iomunuity continue for the next five years they will still try to main-tain that view." One of the chief ob-jections raised against the employ-ment of safety explosives instead of sunnowder was that the former led gunpowder was that the former led the evolution of poisonous fumes but it appears as a final answer to this that the only complaint made about fumes during the year came from a mine where gunpowder was the cxplosive used.—Lancet.

THE KLONDIKE GOLD FIELDS. Location of the Rich Mines in the Alaska Territory The gold fields of the Klondike or Troandik district, as officially designated, lie along or immediately about the waters, whether direct or tribu-tary, of the Klondike, an eastern af-fluent of the Yukon, which discharges into the "father of northern waters at the site of Dawson. The Klondike itself, whose upper vaters are as yet only imperfectly known, scemingly carries but little gold, the main quantity of the precious metal and that which has made the region famous being contributed by one of its southern arms, the Bonanza, and by a tributary of this, the Eldorado. Hunker creek, drainfing a mountainous district several miles to the castward of the Bonanza, and like it a southern affluent of the Klondike, finds promisional control of the control of the Romanza, and like it a southern affluent of the Klondike, finds promisional control of the Romanza and like it a southern affluent of the Klondike, finds promisional control of the Romanza and like it a southern affluent of the Klondike, finds promisional control of the Romanza and like it as southern affluent of the Klondike, finds promisional control of the Romanza and R at the site of Dawson. The Klondike affluent of the Klondike, finds prom affluent of the Klondike, finds promise of a wealth but little if at all inferior to that of the Ronanza. In a broader or more popular sense the Klondike region not only embraces the special district so designated in the books of the gold commissioner, but also the entire tract which heads up to the sources of the streams that have before been mentioned, and thereby, with Quartz, Sulplus and thereby, with Quartz, Sulphur and Dominion creeks as tributaries of In-Dominion creeks as tributaries of Indian river, takes in the greater portion of the Indian river mining district, and with Paker, Reindeer and other creeks on the west, the official district indicated by these names as well. With this limitation the region roughly defines an area about 40 miles somewhat to the north of the sixty-fourth parallel of latitude, and on the west reaches to within about 35 miles of the international boundary, the one hundred and forty-first meridian of west longitude—Prof. Angelo Heilprin, in Appletons' Popular Science Monthly.

FRIENDLY SQUURRELS.
Come lato the House and Answer When Called by Mane.
What can be done in the way of taming squirrels has been well illustrated a good many times in this eity, says the Springfield Republisean, and nowhere better than at the house and grounds of the Misses Clary, on Ingraham avenue and Union street.
The famly began to feed and pet
the squirrels about four years ago, and have got them so that they are very tame. They feed them every day, and the squirrels appear as regularly as boarders. They run all over,
and when let in through the house
play like kittens about the lawn, turning somersaults and performing their ing somersaults and performing their graceful eapers. The family have be-eome very much attached to them, although the squirrels are sometimes generiul capres. The family have become very much attached to them, although the squirrels are sometimes so mischievous that they get out of patience with the little animals. If I not let into the house when they expect, they have sometimes gnawed the window sashes and have gnawed the window sashes and the window sashes tractable than the grays. They are intelligent little beats. The family have named some of them, and the little things knew their names and would come when called. To drive them away when bent on mischief once, some one threw a bowlful ofwater on one of them, and the little thing darted off with a represenful look on his face, enough to haunt one for days. To keep them from gnawing it has sometimes been found neessary to daub the window sashes with a mustral preparation, the taste of which they do not like. These squirvis have their nests in a little recess under the eavies, and it is an interesting sight to see the mothers of the family teaching their young ones to elimb about the trees and to their nest and the building. The little one was staking a young one up a tree to a limb near the house, from which the old ones jump a distance of about a yard to the building. The little one was taking a young one up a tree to a limb near the house, from which the old ones a deal to take the little one up and earry him over to the building. The little one was taking a young one was the little one up and earry him over to the building. Interesting History of a College

Interesting History of a College.

Mount Holyoke college was known for 50 years as Mount Holyoke seminary. In 1888 ii became Mount Holyoke seminary and college, and in 1893 the seminary was dropped altogether. With the securing of its charter the difficult task of building up the institution began. Prejudice had to be removed, indifference overcome, phil-anthropy aroused and benevolence called into action. The funds for the first building, 827,000, were collected in sums ranging from six exents, in three instances, to $1,000, in but two, and there were 1,800 subscribers. Mary Lyon, a pupil in the seminary of Rev. Joseph Emerson at Plyfeld, piloted the movement, and as a result of her untiring labors she has justly been called the founder of the college. A deserted spot in Buckland, in the hill country of this state, to which Mount Holyoke girls make summer pigirinages, is now marked by a bronze tablet with this inscription. "Mary Lyon, the founder of Mount Holyoke seminary, was born here February 28, 1737."

BEAT THE TRUST.

Took Large Orders to Advance of a Cut Rate.

"I don't care to mention names," said a visitor from New Jersey, "but this is an absolutely true story of how one man at least beat a big trust at its own game. He was at the head of a small concern making—let us say—car wheels (that's not exactly it, but pretty nearly), and about a year ago he got a private hint that the other ear wheel people were stranging a corrbine. He seid nothine, but immediately communicated with several of the largest consumers and by effering on the communicated with several got the largest consumers and by effering on the communicated with several that would occupy him over two years to fill, running at full capacity. At the price named every wheel would be made at a loss, and his partners twere badyscared. He told them to take the price named every wheel would be bended to the seven the seven when the seven in the seven in the seven in the usual fashion. In other two words, they cut rates, but, strange to say, the little wheelmaker didn't seem to care. Then they made an afterney words, they cut rates, but, strange to say, the little wheelmaker didn't seem to care. Then they made an afterney he intention of freezing him out at one fell swoop. That was just what he was waiting for, and through a third party he instantly placed orders covering all the contracts he had made at a figure that left him's liandsome margin of profit. Without suspecting the first of the profit of the promptly became alarmed at the losses incurred in the freezing-out process and made him another and much here offer for his plant, which he promptly become offer for his plant, which he promptly become offer for his plant, which he promptly the offer for his plant, which he promptly effect offer for his plant, which he promptly effect of the forcer of the process and effect of the plant, which he promptly effect of the forcer of the process and effect of the plant, which he promptly the offer for his plant, which he promptly the offer for his plant, which he promptly t curred in the freezing out process and made him another and much better offer for his plant, which he promptly accepted. Now the trust has the conoffer for his plant, which he promptly accepted. Now the trust has the concern and is obliged to run it day and might to make wheels at 25 per cent. under actual cost from the man it tried to ruin. As fast as he gets them he turns them over on his centracts and reaps the intermediate profit, while, needless to say, the trust magnates howl with anguish every time they make a delivery. The little wheelmaker got enough out of the sale of the plant to retire for life, and he is carrying out the rest of the campaign merely for sport. He says it's great fint to see a trust on the grid-

If the earth be represented by a grain of mustard seed, then on the same seale the sun should be represented by a cocoanut.

Perhaps, however, a more impres-sive conception of the dimensions of the great orb of day may be obtained in this way: Think of the moon, the in this way: Think of the moon, the queen of the night, which circles monthly around our heavens, pursuing as she does a undjectic track, at a distance of 24,000 miles from the earth. Yet the sun is so wast that if it were a hollow ball the moon could revolve in the orbit which it now follows and still be entirely inclosed within the sun's interior.

It has, indeed, been estimated that if the heat which is incessantly flowing through any single square foot of the sun's exterior could be collected and applied beneath the boilers of an Atlantic liner could be collected and applied be-neath the obliers of an Atlantic liner it would suffice to produce steam enough to sustain in continuous movement those engines of 30,000 horse-power which enable a superb ship to break the record between Ireland and America. — Pearson's Weekly.

Help the Cause.

There has never been a political campaign that equalied in importance that of the one to be fought this fall. The Republican party, backed by the mouse power of this country and Europe, is alert and aggressive Flushed with the victory of two year ago, it will seek by every means in it power to maintain its supremacy.

Demicrate must be up and doin They must wage as unceasing upon their enemies. In no bette more effective way can this be off than by the circulation of good, sen Democratic newspapers.
